Martineau a Speaker.

L. R. Martineau was introduced by Mr. Halloran as the "next Democratic governor of Utah." He made an enteraining address, and closed by assuring the labor leaders that the brotherhood was cordially welcome in Salt Lake. T. M. Guerin of Troy, N. Y., first vice president of the brotherhood, told a story of the beginning of the eight-hour day for carpenters in New York.

W. G. Wilson, chairman of the district council committee on convention, made the closing address. Many delegates to the convention have already arrived in Salt Lake. New arrivals are getting here on every train. Secretary Duffy thinks that there will be about 400 delegates. All arrangements have been concluded for the street parade Monday morning, which will precede the opening of the convention.

Albert Howe, a Flagman, Killed on Rio Grande Train at Provo River.

Albert L. Howe, a flagman on the Rio Grande Western, met with a tragic death yesterday afternoon at about 4 o'clock, by being knocked from a train at the Provo river bridge. Howe was standing on the rear platform and when nearing Halloran introduced Governor John C. Cutler. The governor spoke of the dignity of toil, and of the importance to a community of its citizens who labor At the close of his address, President As soon as possible the train was stopped and backed up to the bridge and the train W. low wages and compelled to work long hours. Since then, conditions have been improved. The brotherhood, he said, now has 250,000 members, and nearly 2,000 local branches.

Mr. Huber said that the brotherhood was anxious to preserve pleasant relations betweens the carpenters and their employers. This led him to the subject of strikes. He said that he had never believed in strikes, and that he hoped to see the day when strikes would be believed in strikes, and that he hoped to see the day when strikes would be eliminated.

The funeral will be under the auspices of the B. R. T. and the Elks. A brother of Mr. Howe will arrive in Ogden
